ARKADELPHIA, Ark. – Ouachita Baptist University's Division of Music will host its 17th annual Mary Shambarger Competition for Singers on Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 2 p.m. in Mabree Fine Arts Center's McBeth Recital Hall on the Ouachita campus. The competition's performances are open to the public.

The competition is open to Ouachita voice principals in their fourth semester of study or beyond and features a repertoire that rotates annually among selections from art songs, music theatre and arias. This year's competition will highlight art songs.

"This will be a fantastic afternoon of various art songs of all different styles and time periods," said David Stanley, instructor of music and event coordinator. This year, 20 upperclassmen voice principals are in competition.

The Shambarger Competition is held each year to honor Mary Shambarger, professor emerita of music, who served as a professor and vocal instructor on Ouachita's music faculty for 32 years. Shambarger was influential in the formation of the Ouachita-Tones, an all-female singing ensemble, which she later restructured into what is now known as the Ouachita Sounds, a smaller ensemble of male and female students.

"The Shambarger Competition is not only a wonderful opportunity for student performers to share their musical gifts through song, but also an opportunity to win generous prize money," noted Stanley. "This competition typically brings out the very best in our OBU vocalists."

The generous prize money is made available by Shambarger to encourage students to present their work in the most professional way possible. The first-place winner will receive a $500 award; second place will receive $300; third place will receive $200; fourth place will receive $100 and honorable mention will receive $50.

Shambarger further remains involved by serving as one of the judges. Dr. Charles Wright, former dean of the OBU School of Fine Arts and current development officer, and Jenna Williams Tucker, a 2002 Ouachita graduate and voice professional, join her in adjudication.

A reception in the Hammons Gallery of Mabree Fine Arts Center honoring the singers and judges will follow the competition.
